DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. The response filed March 30, 2005 is acknowledged.
2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
3. The indicated allowability of claim 4 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Chuang (5,297,774); Gonyk (1,855,106); and Smith (5,833,145). Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. Claims 2 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gonyk (1,855,106).

Gonyk discloses a spray gun 1 comprising an intercept valve comprising: a main body 18; a ball obturator 21; an annular seating 20; a pusher element (piston of 22 in contact with ball 21); a means for activating (handle 22).

The preamble "spray gun" has been considered to merely recite a name for the device. The body of the claim recites no limitation that breathes life and meaning to the term "spray gun".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 2 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Chuang (5,297,774).

Chuang discloses a spray gun (sprayer shown in figure 11) comprising an intercept valve comprising: a main body 8; a ball obturator 15; an annular seating 16, 17; a pusher element 11, 113; a means for activating 1, 3.

The preamble “spray gun” has been considered to merely recite a name for the device. The body of the claim recites no limitation that breathes life and meaning to the term “spray gun”.

Even if a “spray gun” is required by the claimed invention, “spray guns are well known in the art. Chuang discloses, column 3, lines 63-66, “... a water pipe or other fittings such as a sprinkler can be alternatively filled thereon...” It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have provided a spray gun to the device of Chuang to provide a pistol grip sprayer to facilitate easy gripping.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. Claims 2 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chuang (5,297,774) in view of Smith (5,833,145).

Chuang discloses a spray gun (sprayer shown in figure 11) comprising an intercept valve comprising: a main body 8; a ball obturator 15; an annular seating 16, 17; a pusher element 11, 113; a means for activating 1, 3.

The preamble "spray gun" has been considered to merely recite a name for the device. The body of the claim recites no limitation that breathes life and meaning to the term "spray gun".

Even if a "spray gun" is required by the claimed invention, "spray guns are well known in the art. Smith discloses a spray gun 10 attached to water spigot W. Chuang discloses, column 3, lines 63-66, "...a water pipe or other fittings such as a sprinkler can be alternatively filled thereon..." It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have provided a spray gun to the device of Chuang as taught by Smith for manipulation by the user (Smith, column 2, lines 57-62).
